

"So it has come to this.....

In so my friends, I shut down the doors to Proletariat Films, which will always remain in my heart as my first endeavor into film.....

Forsaken Documentary causes dissension in the ranks!!!

Well, I never saw this coming . . .

Having been hired to work on a controversial documentary I, Robert Serrini, have come under attack by a radical group that is apparently against the production of the film.

They have really gone out of their way to try to smear my name in mud and debase my credibility. I'm sure the producers of the documentary must think they are doing something right if it is striking such a nerve.

In the meanwhile I have moved on to do many other projects, but do keep your ears out for the "Forsaken" documentary as I'm sure it will rustle some feathers in the Catholic Church."
